Swings and Arrows

Competitors in the 10th World Computer-Bridge Championship

As the knockouts come down to the final stages and the pairs get into high gear, players at the 8th World Bridge Championships are experiencing their own versions of outrageous fortune.

For example, in the Rosenblum on Sunday, the team captained by Gabriel Chagas was leading in a tight match with the Christal Henner-Welland squad before suffering a game swing on the next-to-last board to fall behind for the first time in nearly the entire second half, and with a flat final board, they were out.

Four American teams remain in the Rosenblum, which begins the quarter-final round today.

The semi-final round of the McConnell is today, with the possibility of an all-American final – Steiner and Narasimhan. The other semi-finalists – Katt-Bridge and Poland - will have something to say about that.

Pairs competitors are advised to read the notice on page 17 of this issue.

COSE DI CASA NOSTRA

Nel primo turno dello squadre seniores la formazione Romanin (du Pont/Garozzo in aperta, De Falco/Romanin in chiusa e Balbi/Cedolin in panchina) ha incontrato la plurititolata nazionale Indonesiana che, approfittando dell'anagrafe, ha scelto di concorrere per questo titolo mondiale piuttosto che per la Rosenblum. Il risultato è stato 17 a 13 per gli indonesiani.

Munawar Sawiruddin ha attaccato con la quarta carta del colore più lungo, il 2 di cuori. Lea du Pont, in presa con il Fante del morto, ha anticipato un colpo in bianco a quadri. Arwin Budirahardja, in Ovest, ha splittato i suoi onori, rimanendo in presa, ed è tornato nel colore d'attacco, filato da Est, per un secondo onore del morto. Proseguendo nell'affrancamento delle prese, la dichiarante ha giocato Asso di quadri e quadri, per il Re di Est che ha incassato due cuori ed è uscito a picche. La du Pont ha catturato un onore di Ovest con il Re della mano, ha rigiocato picche per l'Asso, per arrivare a:

♠ 8 ♥ — ♦ — ♣ K J 5		♠ 7 ♥ — ♦ — ♣ 7 6 4
♠ Q ♥ — ♦ — ♣ Q 9 8	N O E S
♠ — ♥ — ♦ 9 ♣ A 10 2

Sul 9 di quadri Ovest, stretto tra picche e fiori, ha scartato l'8 di fiori. La du Pont, per mantenere la possibilità di impasse su Est, si è sbarazzata del Fante di fiori e ha continuato con fiori per il Re. Al redde rationem, la moneta lanciata in aria ha detto fiori per il 10. Due down. Nell'altra sala lo stesso contratto è stato giocato da Sud e mantenuto con un diverso attacco.

Qualche spiegazione. Il 2♣ di Sud è un relay interrogativo e il 2♦ mostra mano minima, 11/15. 2♠ interroga ancora, ma senza interesse ad un eventuale slam. 2SA annuncia di non avere singoli. Garozzo ha catturato con un onore del morto l'attacco 6 di fiori di Ovest per anticipare picche verso un onore della mano. Ovest, quasi colto di sprovvisa, si è fermato un attimo a ragionare prima di entrare con il Re e tornare fiori (sui 2 colpi di fiori, Est ha dato il conto a scendere, pari). In un momento di distrazione, un dichiarante frettoloso, molto frettoloso, potrebbe prendere al morto e rigiocare picche verso la mano, influenzato anche dalla vistosa esitazione di Ovest. No, non siamo in questa fattispecie. Garozzo, sul ritorno fiori, è entrato con l'Asso della mano e ha tirato 3 colpi di quadri finendo al morto. Fante di cuori a girare. Re di cuori e fiori. Dama di fiori, l'ultimo colpo a quadri e 10 di cuori (Dama, finito). 3SA+1. In chiusa 3SA mi.

Championship Diary

On Thursday Ron Tacchi's wife (Mrs. T) set off to explore Verona. She discovered a beautiful garden, the Giardino Giusti, and paid the entrance fee to go in.

In the evening she accompanied Ron to the President's dinner that was at, as you may have guessed, the Giardino Giusti!

The President of the Polish Bridge Federation, Radoslaw Kielbasinski asked me, 'What is the best match to watch tomorrow?' After due consideration I suggested, 'Perhaps Portugal v Mexico?' 'Well, actually I meant the bridge.'

Jan Louwerse came through the Bulletin Room (at this tournament you can't avoid it) and asked if we had anything to cut some paper with. 'Try Tacchi's desk. He may have some scissors – or Anna Gudge, who is next door.' No, I need something to slice paper, maybe a guillotine.' 'In that case I suggest you ask Jean-Paul – the French are experts!'

Grattan Endicott reported that while making his way to the venue he encountered a very frail lady coming in the opposite direction. As their paths converged she stepped aside to allow him to pass!

Max Bavin is not Chief TD for nothing. His movie quote is: 'What do I know about diamonds?' Turkish (Jason Statham) 'Snatch.'

I encountered a particularly attractive player – one well below the age limit – while checking out the Seniors event. 'What are you doing here?' I enquired. 'Looking for a husband!' she replied.

World Championship Book 2006

The official book of these championships in Verona will be available before the end of the year at a price of US$34. However, for those present in Verona, the book can be pre-ordered at the very special reduced price of US$25 or 20 Euros, including surface mail to anywhere in the world (Airmail is extra).

To order and pay for your copy, please see Jan Swaan in the Press Room – go through the door marked Staff and Guests only, one floor down from the main playing area, and the Press Room is through the Bulletin Room. Please, when you fill in the form, write your name and address very clearly in capital letters, as every year I have to guess at several addresses.

The book will be 336 large pages, its usual size, and will include a full results listing and many photographs. There will be coverage of every championship, with the principal analysts being Eric Kokish and Brian Senior. Barry Rigal is taking a year off, but there will be one or two special guest contributors to look forward to.

Round of 16 - Session 4

Rosenblum Cup

Last-Minute Winner

by Brian Senior

After three quarters of their Round of 32 match in the Rosenblum, the American EKEBLAD squad trailed India's NADAR by 67-97 IMPs. The first board of the fourth quarter saw another 6 IMPs added to NADAR's lead and the next three boards were flat. Then EKEBLAD began a strong fight-back.

After identical starts to the auction, Rajesh Tiwari raised direct to 4♥ while Geoff Hampson only invited, however, Eric Greco accepted the invitation so the same contract was reached at both tables.

Against Prabhakar, Fred Gitelman led a low heart, dummy's nine winning. Prabhakar led a spade to Gitelman's ace and he now played ace and another trump, Brad Moss pitching a club and a diamond. Prabhakar led the queen of diamonds to the king and ace, back to the ten of diamonds, then the ♠J, ruffing out the king. He took a spade pitch on the jack of diamonds, but was left with two spade losers at the end for one down; -50.

Bachiraju Satyanarayana also led a trump, but Greco chose to win in hand to lead a spade towards dummy's eight. Satyanarayana went in with the ace to play two more rounds of hearts and Kiran Nadar threw a club and a diamond, just as in the other room. Now Greco found a crucial extra chance. He cashed the ace of clubs before leading the ♦Q to the king and ace, ruffed a club, and saw a second honour fall on his left. Surely the clubs were five-two, so Greco next ruffed a spade and led the ♣10 for a ruffing finesse and claimed when West showed out, just conceding a diamond at the end as he had to overtake the ten with the jack to get at the established club trick; nicely played for +420 and 10 IMPs to EKEBLAD, closing to 77-103.

Moss/Gitelman must have been concerned at missing the grand slam. The problem came with the 5♣ bid. Moss intended this as Exclusion Keycard and thought that there was something missing after the 5♥ response, while Gitelman took 5♣ to be a splinter so made an encouraging noise with his 5♥ cuebid and could not go on over Moss's sign-off. There were, of course, 13 tricks available, so that was +1370.

Satyanarayana broke the transfer at the other table, then redoubled to show first-round club control. It looks as though he intended 4NT as asking for key-cards, but that it was taken as showing club wastage. Nadar's conservative decision to pass 4NT was an expensive one. Plus 720 meant 12 IMPs to EKEBLAD, when it could have been 13 IMPs the other way. The score was 103-89 in favour of NADAR.

The match tightened up even further when EKEBLAD bought the contract at both tables on this deal and made them both. It was mildly surprising to see Prabhakar pass out 1♠ holding 14 HCP, when both INT and 2♦ can be made by North/South.

Tiwari led a low trump against 1♠. Gitelman went up with the king and played a low club, Prabhakar taking the king to return a trump. Tiwari won and played the third trump, so the defenders could cash three diamond tricks when in with the ace of clubs, but that was all; +80.

Nadar led the queen of clubs against 1♦. Hampson won the ace and drew trumps then exited with king and another club. Satyanarayana won the ♣10 and switched to a low heart so that three hearts could be cashed ending in the West hand, but now Hampson ducked the spade switch so Nadar was endplayed to give the overtrick for +90 and 5 IMPs to EKEBLAD; 94-103.

NADAR stopped the bleeding temporarily on Board 22 when Tiwari/Prabhakar stayed low while Hampson/Greco bid a poor and unsuccessful game; 5 IMPs to NADAR, increasing the lead to 108-94.

Satyanarayana took the classical approach with length in the suit opened on his right, passing the West hand. He passed again over the INT rebid when some players might have doubled to show a decent hand including diamonds, so Greco declared INT and Satyanarayana led a low diamond to the nine and queen. Greco played a diamond right back so Satyanarayana cashed four of those, giving a delicate suit-preference signal for clubs along the way, then exited with a spade. Greco won with dummy's jack to lead the ten of hearts, wanting West to win the first round of the suit. That worked out well for him as Nadar ducked and Satyanarayana won the king then exited safely with a heart. Nadar won the ace and played a club to the jack and ace, leaving the spades blocked so that Greco had to concede the last trick; down one for -100.

Gitelman overcalled INT and Tiwari doubled, ending the auction. Tiwari found the disastrous lead of the ten of diamonds. Dummy's jack was allowed to hold the first trick and the ♦9 the second – an error on Prabhakar's part as it left the lead in dummy for a club play to the jack and ace. Tiwari switched to a heart to dummy's ace and Gitelman took a second club finesse then cashed his winners; nine tricks for +580 and 10 IMPs to EKEBLAD, closing again to 104-108.

Both North/South pairs had some guessing to do, but the natural weak two bid worked out a lot better than the multi, as it permitted an immediate pre-emptive raise from East. That left Tiwari with little option but to bid 5♦ at his second turn and, while Prabhakar was happy to hear that call, he could hardly raise to six; +420. The multi, coupled with Nadar's less pre-emptive raise to 3♠ at her second turn, left room for Greco to show his hearts and some modest values. That was enough for Hampson, who took a shot at 6♦, which proved to be an excellent decision; +920 and 11 IMPs to EKEBLAD. We had a new leader in the match, EKEBLAD ahead by 115-108.

The lead did not survive a single deal.

Moss opened a very thin 1♥ but the Indians also got to game. The swing came in the defence.

Prabhakar led a trump, which Moss won in dummy to lead a club to the queen and ace. Back came a second trump. Moss won and drew the last trump, then played a diamond to the ace, threw a spade on the king of clubs, then ruffed a club and played king and another diamond. Tiwari won the diamond and played a spade through; down one for -100.

At the other table, Hampson led the ace of spades and that was the fourth defensive trick up in smoke; ten tricks for +620 and 12 IMPs to NADAR, back ahead by 120-115 with just three deals to play.

Board 26 was a flat 3NT+2 and EKEBLAD picked up an overtrick IMP on Board 27, so trailed by 4 IMPs going into the final deal.

Requirements of system saw Prabhakar respond INT, showing clubs, with the South cards and Gitelman made a pre-emptive jump overcall. Tiwari liked his minor-suit holdings so took a shot at 3NT. On a diamond lead, Prabhakar would have had time to develop nine tricks, but Gitelman led the jack of spades. Moss won the ace and returned a spade so the defence had two spade tricks established and when Moss got in with a club they cashed them; down one for -100. EKEBLAD had done what needed to be done at one table, but could they also go plus at the other?

Hampson's 1♦ opening ensured an uncontested auction and his 2♥ rebid showed 11-13 balanced. Greco showed his second suit and Hampson tried 3NT. It is not impossible to lead ace and another spade on this auction, but a diamond is normal and that is what Nadar chose. When Satyanarayana won and returned the suit, Hampson won and cleared the clubs and Nadar continued diamonds. Hampson cashed out for +600 and 12 IMPs to EKEBLAD.

The American team had come back strongly in the last session and won the match by 128-120, contrary to what was stated on the front page of yesterday's Bulletin. Our apologies for that, which was caused by late-night Internet problems.

Declarer ruffed the opening lead of the ace of diamonds in dummy and played a heart. South went in with the ace, cashed the ace of clubs and exited with a heart. Now declarer played on cross-ruff lines, finessing in clubs along the way, and South scored a club ruff with the jack of spades; two down for +300.

South paid a heavy penalty for an off-centre double. Declarer won the spade lead in dummy and played ace of hearts and a heart, West discarding the four of clubs. Now a diamond to the king was followed by a diamond to the nine. East ruffed and forced declarer with a spade. That held the contract to eight tricks; -800 and 15 IMPs.

South led the nine of hearts and declarer played low from dummy, winning in hand with the jack and playing a club to the nine and ace. North cashed the ace of hearts and gave South a heart ruff. Declarer won the spade switch in dummy, discarded a spade on the king of clubs and played a diamond to the ace and a diamond. South won with the king and played a spade and North ruffed – one down, +100 and 12 IMPs.

The contract can be made, but only by the counter intuitive play of going up with one of dummy's heart honours and if that is allowed to hold playing a diamond to the ace and a diamond.

West led the seven of diamonds and declarer won in dummy, cashed the other top diamond to discard a spade and then played the three of hearts, covering East's four with the six. A club to dummy was followed by a second heart and the hand was over; +590 and another 12 IMPs to Henner-Welland.

Declarer had a choice of plays in the heart suit. I consulted our resident guru, David Burn, who reported back that, of the three possibilities, low to the queen is best, followed by low to the nine and then low to the ace, as opposed to low to the nine followed by low to the queen. So declarer took the best line – unluckily. (There is not a lot in it for all three lines – 65%, 63.75% & 62.91667%.)

Of course, I was hoping that low to the nine would be the winner – a mirror image of the play on the previous deal.

In the third set of the round of 32 in the Rosenblum, there was a wild set between Allfrey and Morath (there were five doubled contracts in the first nine deals with penalties of 800, 500, and 300, together with a +750). Deal number 9 produced the most interesting play. You may care to consider it as a declarer play problem, covering up the North and South cards

Upmark doubled David Bakhshi's 4♥ contract, and Tornqvist led the ♣10 – suit preference. Bakhshi won in hand and took a little time to digest the implications of the auction. Eventually he found the master-play of the ♥J from hand – a play that is almost necessary (if not sufficient) to make the contract. South won his ♥Q, gave his partner the club ruff, and got a spade ruff coming back. But now the fourth spade took care of the diamond loser and Bakhshi had 790.

There were actually two possible defences; the difficult one is for North not to give his partner the spade ruff but to play a diamond – South still has a trump trick to come and the defence has established the diamond trick in time. The easy defence is for North to duck the ♥J – second hand plays low after all! North wins his ♥A, gives a spade ruff, gets a club ruff, and the second spade ruff spells one down!

Significant Spots

Do you pay attention to the seemingly insignificant low cards? They played a part on two deals from the Round 9 Rosenblum match between Peter Hecht-Johansen and Roy Welland. The Americans led the F-group in front of PHJ and both teams were safe – so only pride was a stake. Alas, pride sometimes comes before a fall!

Taking his eye off the ball, instead of crossing to dummy with a diamond to play a club to the nine, declarer cashed the king of clubs and when North discarded and the diamonds broke 4-1 the contract was two down for -200.

The lead was the six of spades (third and fifth) for the queen, ace and three. From South's point of view which is more likely – that declarer would bid Six Diamonds with ♠K3 and a low heart or with his actual holding? (Would declarer have bid a slam with only one first round control? Editors)

You might expect declarer to play the seven of spades with this holding, but Roy admitted that he did not have the time to check the lead and play the 'right' card in tempo, so he was very ethical and just played a quick card.

When South switched to a heart declarer could claim twelve tricks.

This is Matchpoints, Not Bridge

by Matthew Granovetter

I've always despised five-card suit weak two-bids. That is, until this tournament, when I agreed to play them with my Mixed Pairs partner, according to her systemic outline: When we are not vulnerable, we open 2♠, 2♥ or 2♦, with a five-card suit and 4-10 HCP.

That's it. Period. Suit quality? Who cares? Distribution? Doesn't matter. OK, I agreed to play the 'system'. After all, we're playing matchpoints, not bridge, right? This was Board 8 of the second final session:

Opening led: ♠K.

I had good spades for the two-bid this time, but my shape was not much to write home about. Some people call 5-3-3-2 the 'death shape.' North, however, felt challenged by the bid and refused to make a disciplined pass. He overcalled 3♥. Karen McCallum, my partner, competed to 3♠, and South made a responsive double. Now North was in the hot seat and had to judge what to do. If he had passed, we would have been down one for a poor score (only 17% for us), but he chose to bid 3NT.

Karen made a nice double, with the K-J-x-x of hearts behind his overcalled suit. South ran to 4♣, and I doubled with my 'maximum' strength (after all, I could have held 4 points). This ended the auction and South was four down (100% for us).

Obviously, South could have done better by redoubling 3NT, assuming it asked her partner to choose a minor, but she was not sure the redouble was for rescue. North might have run to 4♦ himself, based on the responsive double. In any case, the 2♠ bid launched an auction of fireworks and gave N/S problems that other N/S pairs did not face. After six sessions of using McCallum two-bids, I am now convinced that they work.

Have a nice week.

The Beauty of What Didn't Happen

Our friend, Deep Finesse, can tell the winning line of play or defense in any contract. After all, DF always looks at all the cards, which is a huge advantage.

On this deal from the McConnell qualifying rounds, Irina Levitina managed 10 tricks in a contract of 4♠, but she did not consider her performance particularly inspiring. What did excite her was the possibility for a beautiful play – and she worked it out without Deep Finesse.

Levitina was playing with team captain Hansa Narasimhan.

South started with a low trump, taken in dummy with the 10. Levitina played a diamond to the king and ace and won the trump continuation in her hand.

She then played a heart from hand. South won the ♥K and exited with a club to dummy's ace. Now Levitina played the ♣K, ruffed a club, cashed the ♦Q and ruffed a diamond, then played dummy's fourth club, ruffing in hand. She picked up the last trump with the ace and played a heart to the jack, queen and ace.

At trick 13, North had only a heart left, so she led it perforce to dummy's good 10 as Levitina discarded her losing diamond. That was Plus 620.

What Levitina appreciated about the deal was what didn't happen – and how 4♠ is always cold if she makes the right play.

On a trump lead, she can win and play a diamond, but South will win the ace and continue with trumps, making two diamond ruffs in dummy impossible.

Levitina, however, spotted the 100% play – lead a heart from hand at trick four. If South wins the king and exits with anything but a heart, win it, get to hand again and play a second heart, ducking if South plays the jack.

If South plays the jack the first time the suit is led, declarer must play low then also. To make the contract, you must not cover the jack with the queen either time you lead the suit because if you do, North can play a third round of trumps to scuttle the contract (you get a diamond pitch on the ♥10 but no diamond ruff).

To demonstrate that she is an honest person as well as a fine bridge player, Levitina did note that she is not sure she would have found the play of ducking the ♥J had the opportunity presented itself.

One of the joys of matchpoints (for those with a warped sense of humour) is that you can pretty much score a top or bottom on any given deal.

When West opened One Heart North made a double of a type much beloved by Italian players, but not perhaps one that would be approved of by the theorists.

Since North was suggesting possession of some spades I decided to go quietly, and to my delight South bid One Spade.

This inelegant contract drifted two down and +200 was worth 97%.

Sometimes – even in Ireland – silence can be golden.

More information?

All official documents can be found at <http://202.113.96.26/fusc-ba/fisu/fisu.htm>. Here you will find the FISU-forms to be completed, the first bulletin and the official invitation

When?

From October 21st to 27th. There will be five days of intensive competition and a one-day organised tour of Tianjin.

Hosting and playing area?

Each delegation will be hosted at the University of Tianjin in rooms for two. The championships will be played at the same University. The sleeping area and the playing area will be next to each other. The hosting can be compared to a 3 star hotel with very nice rooms and Internet connection in each room. At this location, the Chinese University Sport Federation organised in 2004 a national University Bridge Championship between 32 teams! So the location is very good for the FISU-Championships. More information is available on the website at www.unibridge.org

Participation?

Each country may send two national teams. Teams must be entered by the National University Sport Federation (NUSF) by sending the necessary FISU-forms (general, nominative, quantitative, individual) to the Organizing Committee (OC), which is the Chinese University Sport Federation. For most of the NUSF, it is an obligation to organise a National University Bridge Championship to send afterwards a team to FISU-Championships. It is possible to ask the patronage of this National University Bridge Championship to FISU by sending an e-mail to Mister Laurent Briel, Director of World Championships at FISU: l.briel@fisunet.net. More about FISU-rules and FISU can be found at www.fisunet.net.

Flight to China?

The best is to book a flight to Beijing, because this is much cheaper than flying to Tianjin directly. The Organizing Committee will provide free transport from the airport of Beijing to the venue in Tianjin.

Invitation?

The official invitation will be published on the website at www.unibridge.org. This invitation will be sent by the Organizing Committee to all National University Sport Federations connected to FISU. The WBF will also inform and invite all National Bridge Federations about the FISU-Championships.
